Hollywood, CA (May 17, 2010)--Jason Carson has been named vice president, operations of Record Plant Recording Studios and has been made an officer of the company.

Carson started at Record Plant in 2001 as a "runner," then became an assistant engineer and engineer in quick succession. He rose rapidly and was named chief engineer in 2005.

Record Plant Recording Studios president, Rose Mann-Cherney stated, "I have watched Jason grow from entry level to engineer to chief engineer and now vice president. Through these years, he has always been an asset and a leader."

Carson is a 2001 graduate of Berklee College of Music where he earned a BA in Music Production and Engineering. As head of operations, he will report jointly to Mann-Cherney and Record Plant CEO, Rick Stevens. Carson will be responsible for all aspects of Record Plant's operations, engineering, staff and finance.
